

37589S1

DIRECTORY SERVICE FOR FORM PROCESSINGABSTRACT

A method for processing a document including a field containing information in a predefined domain includes
5 defining a directory of data relating to the predefined domain. An image of the field containing the information is received from a client via a computer network. The image is processed to code the information, and the coded information is looked up in the directory so as to check
10 whether the information is coded correctly.

03616977 071400